

Sherry, Fortified, Oxidative & Dessert Wines (2.5 oz)

NV Bodegas Yuste, Palomino Fino, Manzanilla Sanlúcar de Barrameda, Andalusia, Spain

6

Yuste adopted a 19th century solera with his own to produce a complex and beguiling Manzanilla, between 8 and 10 years of age. This comes from keg and not bottle, so the Sherry “purest” can’t complain that it’s not “fresh.”

Henriques & Henriques, 10 year Sercial, Madeira, Portugal

11

H&H is the second oldest producer, in Madeira, and the oldest to continuously maintain their vineyards, since 1850. Unlike other Madeira producers, H&H only uses 100% varietal. Sercial provides mouthwatering acidity, apricot, and nuttiness. If you are looking for a Manzanilla Sherry, try this. Madeira keeps indefinitely, so that freshness today will be there tomorrow! A perfect pairing with oysters.

Quinta do Infantado, 10 year Tawny Port, Portugal

14

João Roseira is such a meticulous vigneron, the quality of the grapes are so high quality, he can use 30% less brandy than others in the area. This, as well as using small boxes to haul grapes to the winery post harvest, eliminating broken berries which causes oxidative flaws, creates a less syrupy port.

2013 Quinta do Infantado, Late Bottle Vintage Port, Portugal

10

Even with Port, we will only seek out producers that are ethical. The Roseira family has owned their vineyards since the 19th century, and are still run by the family today. A reflection of Gontelho’s unique terrior along the Douro River, this ruby has been bottled unfiltered and unfiltered.

2016 Château La Rame, Sémillon, Sainte-Croix-du-Mont, Bordeaux, France

14

Sainte-Croix-du-Mont sits directly west across the Garonne River from it’s more famous neighbors Sauternes and Barsac. However, at their finest, the wines rival the two in quality. There is no equal when it comes to price! Bright, fresh, without being overly cloying and syrupy. Refreshing on a hot day.

BEER•ON DRAFT

Stiegl, Goldbräu, Austria [5% 12 oz]

6

Affectionately known as “Salzburg liquid gold,” this full bodied, golden lager is sessionable like a lager, with the flavor of an ale.

Around the Bend ‘Villianous,’ American IPA, , Wisconsin [6.3% 12 oz]

7

One yeast strain just wasn’t enough, “Villianous” uses FOUR! Two British and two West Coast strains combine to one Super strain. More nuanced than your standard IPA, which are still present, look for subtle apple and clover honey notes.

War Pigs ‘Foggy Geezer’, Hazy India Pale Ale, Verona, Wisconsin [8.0% 12 oz]

7

This collaboration with local favorite 3 Floyd’s and Denmark’s, Mikkeller, is a hopbomber’s dream come true. Bright, juicy, citrus and peach; dank and the firm bitterness you’d expect. Ben Rossi approved!

CIDER•SAKE~IN CAN

Graft ‘Farmer’s Flor,’ Unfiltered Dry Table Cider, New York [6.9% 12oz]

6

Unfiltered cider from New York apples and barreled in Spanish cedar, French and American oak to add a toasted edge without losing the crispness.

Bushido ‘Way of the Warrior,’ Junmai Ginjo Sake, Kyoto, Japan [18%, 180mL]
